Skin Contact Wines

What is an Orange Wine?

It's a type of white wine made like a red wine. By leaving the grape skins and seeds in contact with the juice, this can create an orange-hued finished product. Often the method continues by entering vats of terracotta and is ideal for slow and consistent micro-oxygenation of the wine.

Orange Wine	125ml	175ml	250ml	750ml

What is Cerasuolo D'Abruzzo?

It's a type of red wine made like a white wine. By leaving the grape skins and seeds in contact with the juice for a minimal amount of time, then transferring into stainless steel or terracotta where fermentation can continue without control of temperature. Producing some seriously delicious light, rosie reds.
